1. Introduction

- The Employee Code of Conduct is a crucial policy for every organization, regardless of size. It defines the acceptable behavior and responsibilities employees must adhere to. This policy applies to all employees.
 - A Code of Conduct outlines how employees should behave daily, reflecting the company's duties, values, and culture. As a result, each organisation has a unique set of rules tailored to its operations.
 - Our top priority is maintaining a strong commitment to ethical behavior. While we encourage freedom of expression and open communication, we expect all employees to follow this Code of Conduct.

2. Purpose & Scope

This policy sets expectations for employees' behaviour towards their colleagues, supervisors, and the company as a whole.

We promote open communication and freedom of expression. However, employees must:

1. Refrain from insulting others, engaging in heated arguments, or disrupting the workplace.
2. Foster a respectful, well-organised, and collaborative work environment.

This policy applies to all employees, regardless of their employment agreement or location.

Code of Conduct

3. Components of the Code of Conduct Policy

3.1 Compliance with Law

All employees must comply with municipal, national, and regional laws. Employees must:

- Protect the company's legitimacy and reputation.
- Adhere to all environmental, fair-dealing, and safety regulations.
- Ensure ethical conduct in financial matters, collaborations, and public dealings.

Violations of the law may result in fines, legal penalties, loss of government contracts, and reputational damage.

3.2 Cordial Atmosphere in the Workplace

- Employees must treat each other with respect.
- Discrimination, victimisation, or harassment will not be tolerated.
- The company's equal opportunity policy must be followed in recruitment, interpersonal interactions, and performance evaluations.

 Prohibited on office premises: Smoking, alcohol consumption, tobacco products, and non-vegetarian food.

3.3 Protection of Company Property

- Employees must handle company property (physical and digital) with care.
- Intellectual property, trademarks, and copyrights should only be used for official duties.
- Misusing company assets for personal or illegal purposes is strictly prohibited.

Code of Conduct

3.4 Professionalism

3.4.1 Personal Appearance

All employees are expected to maintain a professional appearance in the workplace.

3.4.2 Corruption

Bribery, whether for internal or external benefit, is strictly discouraged.

3.4.3 Job Duties & Authority

- Employees must perform their duties with honesty and respect.
- Managers should distribute tasks fairly and not misuse their authority.
- Employees must follow managers' instructions and complete tasks efficiently and on time.

3.4.4 Absenteeism & Tardiness

- Employees should adhere to their work schedules.
- Exceptions may be granted for emergencies or special circumstances.
- Employees must inform their supervisor or manager about delays or absences.

3.4.5 Collaboration & Communication

- Employees should maintain a friendly and cooperative work environment.
- Open communication with colleagues, supervisors, and team members is encouraged.

3.5 Benefits & Policies

3.5.1 Employee Benefits

Employees should not misuse company-provided benefits such as:

- Facilities

Code of Conduct
